

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

PREFACE

GREEK, the progenitor of most European languages, is the source whence we derive the terms of modern science. However much a long period of time spent in its attainment may be justly decried, there can be no question, but that some degree of acquaintance with its structure and vocabulary, is not only a useful, but a necessary element, in a sound English education.

The books in common use compel the learner, however, either to become conversant with the entire ponderous detail of the language, or remain in ignorance of it altogether,—an objection to the study of Greek, which it is the design of the present treatise in some measure to remove.

The irregularities of the Greek accidence are somewhat numerous; of many variable words only a few are in use; desinences of one word are used in making up the forms of another, and the entire vocabulary is subject more or less to the euphonic modifications that characterise the language. Some Greek writers use one dialect and some another, and the variety of form in the words as they appear in one or other of these dialects is often very considerable. In this treatise, such irregularities in the declensions and conjugations as admit of generalization only are treated, and the tables refer to the "Common Dialect," that is, the language as used by the majority of classic Greek authors. Dialectic forms and anomalous desinences are more properly the province of the lexicon than the grammar; at all events, it is advisable to defer the consideration of such minutiæ till the primary elements of the language are acquired,—a task in itself of no mean magnitude, but which, we trust, this little volume will render less arduous than hitherto.

When a few of the leading principles of the language are firmly and intelligibly fixed upon the memory, the remainder will be more easily comprehended. In the accompanying treatise, the learner accordingly has few rules but much practice. The material consists of a series of alternate Greek and English exercises, interspersed with syntatical rules. The sentences are simple at first, but gradually become more complex, as the principles of construction are successively developed. The accidence is introduced as the learner acquires material to adapt the grammatical tables to practical use, that is, when sufficient progress in the vocabulary has been made to render such tabular synopsis desirable.

Many practical teachers are of opinion that Greek, if taught at all, should be taught before its sister language—the Latin; it is the elder of the two, and as an exponent of general grammar, in many respects superior. Greek roots, moreover, enter largely into the composition of Latin words; hence, a previous acquaintance with Greek would greatly simplify the task of acquiring the Latin vocabulary. It has therefore been our object to produce a Greek beginner's book, embracing essentials only, suitable to any capacity, and thoroughly practical, so that the language, if thought advisable, may be made subservient merely to the purposes of general education.

A Second Course is being prepared, which will embrace exercises on the more idiomatic constructions of the language.

AN INTRODUCTION

TO THE

GREEK LANGUAGE.

ORTHOGRAPHY AND PRONUNCIATION.

THE ALPHABET.

Letters.	Names.	Values.	Letters.	Names.	Values.
Αα,	alpha,	a.	Νν,	nu,	n.
Вβ,	beta,	Ъ.	Æξ,	xi,	x or ks.
Гγ,	gamma,	g (hard).	Ο ο,	omicron,	o (short)
Δδ,	delta,	ď.` ´	Ππ.	pi,	p.` ´
Ε ε,	epsilon,	e (short).	Ρρ,	rho,	ř.
Z ζ,	zeta,	z or ds.	Σσ,ς,	sigma,	8.
Ηη,	eta.	e (long).	Ττ,	tau,	t.
өэ,	theta,	th.	Υυ,	upsilon,	u.
Ιι,	iota,	i.	Φφ,	phi,	ph or f.
Κ κ,	cappa,	k.	Χχ,	chi,	ch(hard).
Αλ,	lambda,	1.	ΨΨ,	рві,	рв.`
M μ.	mu.	m.	Ω ω.	oméga.	o (long).

Rem.—(1) All the letters are pronounced as in English, except ζ , which is usually articulated like ds, and γ when followed by another γ or by κ , χ , ξ ; it then has the sound of n, as $\delta \gamma \gamma \epsilon \lambda o \varepsilon$, "a messenger," pronounced ang-gelos. (2) The consonant γ has always the hard sound of g in go, never that of g in gem. (3) The first form of sigma is used at the beginning or in the middle of a word, the second at the end only.

Ex.— $\Gamma\eta$, the earth. $\Omega\psi$, an eye. Mu_{ξ} , a rat. $P_{\xi\xi}$, the nose. $\Gamma\alpha\rho$, for. Δgu_{ξ} , an oak. $X\rho\omega_{\xi}$, the skin. $\Delta sx\alpha$, ten. $X\rho\sigma\sigma_{\xi}$, time. $\Delta\sigma\xi\alpha$, opinion. $\Sigma\sigma\sigma\sigma_{\xi}$, wise. $B\alpha\theta\sigma_{\xi}$, depth. $A\gamma\chi\omega$, I strangle. $\sigma\sigma_{\xi}$, a serpent. $\Delta ux\sigma_{\xi}$, a wolf. $\Delta ux\sigma_{\xi}$, a witness. III $u\omega$, I drink. $K\alpha\rho\rho_{\delta}$, a deep sleep. ' $O\zeta_{0\delta}$, a branch. $\Phi_{\ell}\alpha\zeta_{\omega}$, I tell. $K_{\ell}i\tau\eta_{\delta}$, a judge. $\Psi\nu\chi_{0\delta}$, cold. ' $I\chi\theta\nu_{\delta}$, a fish. $B\alpha\rho\nu_{\delta}$, heavy. $\Psi_{0}\lambda\rho_{\delta}$, smoke. $Z\omega\rho_{0\delta}$, lively. $\Gamma\rho\alpha\rho\omega_{\delta}$, I write. $K_{0}\rho\alpha\zeta_{\delta}$, a crow. $\Theta_{0}\rho\mu\rho_{\delta}$, warm. ' $H\theta_{0}$, manners. $H_{0}\rho_{0}$, a king of Persia. $\Pi_{0}\lambda\lambda\alpha$, many. $\Psi\alpha\kappa\alpha_{\delta}$, dew. $\Gamma\alpha\gamma\eta\eta_{\delta}$, the river Ganges.

CLASSIFICATION OF THE LETTERS.

Vonels.

Longs, η , ω . Shorts, s, e. Doubtfuls, α , ι , v.

Consonants.

Mutes, β , γ , δ , π , x, τ , φ , χ , θ . Liquids, λ , μ , ν , ρ . Doubles, ζ (ds or ts), ξ (gs or ks), ψ (bs or ps).

Diphthongs or Digraphs.

αι pronounced like the Italian αί.
αυ ,, ,, αw in awe.
ει, ηι ,, ,, i in high.
ευ, ηυ ,, ,, u in tube.
οι, ωι ,, ,, οι in boil.
ου. ωυ ,, ,, οw in now.

Rem.—In all combinations of vowels other than those in the list of diphthongs, each letter has its name sound. Final vowels are always articulated.

Ex.—Πεντε, five. Ribs, I wish. Ψυχη, the soul. Bιοω, I live. Βοωπις, full-eyed. Γοαω, I moan. Οιδα, I know. Ζωον, a living creature. Δυω, two. Ai, alas! Βαινω, I go. 'Αιξ, a goat. Χιμαιςα, a fabulous monster. Αὐλος, a flute. Αὐτος, the same. Χεις, the hand. Μαγείζος, a cook. Βασιλευς, a king. Ζευς, Jupiter. Ψευσμα, a falsehood. Βους, an ox. Βουλη, a council. 'Ηχουσα, I heard, Αίλουρος, a cat.

ORTHOGRAPHIC SIGNS.

The Apostrophe thus ('), indicates, as in English, that a letter has been dropped.

The Smooth Aspirate thus ('), is placed over vowels at the beginning of words, but makes no change in their power.

The Rough Aspirate thus ('), when placed over a vowel, has the power of the letter h as o, pronounced ho.

The Trema thus ("), indicates that the vowel over which it is placed should be pronounced independently of that which follows or precedes.

The Iota Subscribed thus (1), a mark placed under a vowel, denotes that an i has been dropped.

REM.—Every vowel or diphthong at the beginning of a word has either a smooth or a rough aspirate over it. P has likewise a rough aspirate at the beginning of words, and answers to rh, as podov (rhodon), a rose.

Ex.—'Εν, in. 'Εν, one. 'Εξ, from. 'Εξ, six. 'Ωρα, care. 'Ωρα, an hour. Οἰκος, a house. 'Οδευω, I travel. 'Ηδη, already. 'Υψος, height. 'Ελλην, a Greek. Οὐρα, a tail. Οἰκειος, belonging to a house, domestic. 'Ορμη, impetuosity. 'Αλς, salt. 'Ηχεω, I sound. 'Ημερα, a day. 'Ιατρος, a physician. 'Ρημα, a word. 'Αξέωστημα, a malady. Βασιλεί, to a king. Τψ (for τωι), to the. Μουση (for μουσηι), to a muse. 'Ωδη, a song. 'Αλλ' εἰ (for ἀλλα εἰ), but if.

ACCENTS.

The Acute (').
The Grave (').
The Circumflex (").

REM.—These marks do not affect the pronunciation of the words over which they are placed: they are to be regarded as orthographical signs only. According to the usage in the English schools, Greek words are accented on the penult when long, and upon the ante-penult when that syllable is short, without regard to the Greek accentual marks: thus voothor is pronounced hup-si-lon, because the i is long; $\omega \mu i \gamma a$, pronounced 6mega, because the e is short. A short vowel followed by two consonants is long by position. Diphthongs are generally long, and one vowel when followed by another generally short.

Ex.—Χελιδών, a swallow. Τέθνᾶκα, I am dead. Πάπῦξος, an Egyptian plant, paper. 'Υποκεῖτής, an actor. Βασιλίκώς, regally. "Αδίκος, unjust. "Ηγάγον, I brought. Χρυσόθρονος, having a golden throne. Αίνεω, I praise. 'Ωφελέω, I aid. 'Ωφέλεια, utility. Φεύγουσα, having fled. Φιλεργός, a lover of work. Τυγχάνοντες, being by chance. Φιλόπατρις, patriotic.

MARKS OF PUNCTUATION.

The Comma (,), as in English, distinguishes the various clauses of a sentence.

The Colon (·) is placed at the top of the line, and, like the English colon or semicolon, marks a sense partially concluded.

The Period (.) placed at the foot of the line, marks, as in English, a sense entirely concluded.

The Note of Admiration (!) used as in English.

The Point of Interrogation (;) resembles the English semicolon, and denotes a question.

Εχ.—"Οςνις, όφεως ἀὰ εὐροῦσα, ἐπιμελῶς ἐχθεςμάνασα ἐξεκόλαψε. Χελιδὰν δὲ, θεασαμένη αὐτὴν, ἔφη· "Σ. ματαία! τί ταῦτα τςέφεις, ἄπες αὐζηθέντα ἀπὸ σοῦ πρώτης τοῦ ἀδιχεῖν ἄζξεται;

A hen having found some serpent's eggs, carefully covered and hatched them. A swallow, who had noticed this, said; O fool! why do you rear animals which, when big enough, will commence first to harm yourself?

AHN'S METHOD.

FIRST GREEK COURSE

EXERCISES.

ı.

Πατής, father, a father.
Μήτης, mother, a mother.
Αδελφός, brother, a brother,
'Αδελφή, sister, a sister.
Βιβλίον, (neuter), book, a book.

2

'O (masculine), \(\delta\) (feminine), \(\ta \delta\) (neuter), the.

'Ο πατής. 'Η μήτης. Τὸ βιβλίον. 'Ο ἀδελφός. 'Η ἀδελφή.

Rem.—(1) The article agrees with the noun in gender.—(2) When a word, having an acute accent on the last syllable, is followed by another word in the same sentence, the acute is changed into a grave.

3.

'Aγάθός (masc.), ἀγάθή (fem.), ἀγάθόν (neut.), good, honest, amiable, brave.

Πατής ἀγαθός. ΄Η ἀγαθή μήτηρ. 'Ο ἀδελφὸς ἀγαθός. Τὸ βιβλίον ἀγαθόν.

REM.—Adjectives, like the article, agree with the noun in gender.

Father. A mother. The brave brother. An amiable sister. The good book. The good mother. A good father.

5.

Mov (of me), my. Eov (of thee), thy, your.

Πατής μου. 'Αδελφός σου. 'Αδελφή μου. 'Η μήτης σου. 'Η άδελφή μου άγαθή. Τὸ β ι β λίον μου. 'Ο άδελφός σου άγαθός.

REM.—(1) Mov and σov, when not emphatic, drop their accents. These and some other particles are regarded merely as adjuncts of the words they accompany, and for this reason are termed enclitics. (2) The acute accent of the preceding word is not under such circumstances changed into a grave. (See Rem. Ex. 2.)

6.

My mother. Your book. Thy father. My brother. Your amiable sister. Thy good mother. Your good book.

7.

'Eστί, is, he is, she is, it is, there is.

'Ο πατης άγαθός έστι. 'Η μήτης άγαθή έστι. Τὸ βιβλίον άγαθόν έστι. 'Ο άδελφός μου άγαθός έστι. 'Η άδελφή σου άγαθή έστι.

Rem.—'E $\sigma\tau l$ is also an enclitic, and like $\mu\sigma\tilde{v}$, $\sigma\sigma\tilde{v}$, drops the accent unless emphatic. (See Rem. Ex. 5.)

8.

My father is good. My mother is good. My book is good. Your sister is amiable. Your brother is brave. My good father. A good mother.

Κακός, ή, όν, bad, wicked, vicious. Σοφός, ή, όν, wise, intelligent, clever, sagacious.

Πατής σοφός. Μήτης σοφή. Σοφόν βιβλίον. 'Ο κακός αδελφός. 'Η κακή αδελφή. Το βιβλίον κακόν. 'Ο άδελφός σου σοφός έστι. 'Η άδελφή σοφή έστι. Το βιβλίον σοφόν έστι. 'Ο άδελφός μου σοφός έστι. 'Η άδελφή μου κακή έστι. Το βιβλίον μου κακόν έστι. 'Αδελφός μου σοφός. Το βιβλίον έστι κακόν.

REM.—'Eστί and other enclitics of two syllables retain their accents when preceded by a word accented on the penult, or syllable before the last. (See Rem. Ex. 7.)

10.

 $Ka\lambda\delta\varsigma$, $\dot{\eta}$, $\delta\nu$, pretty, handsome, beautiful. $X\rho\eta\sigma\tau\delta\varsigma$, $\dot{\eta}$, $\delta\nu$, useful, kind, indulgent.

A handsome brother. A beautiful sister. A pretty book. The kind father. The indulgent mother. The useful book. My vicious brother. My wicked sister. My bad book. Your brother is handsome. Your sister is beautiful. The book is pretty.

11.

Δίκαιος, δικαία, δίκαιον, just, upright. Μάταιος, ματαία, μάταιον, vain, frivolous, silly.

Πατης δίχαιος. Μήτης διχαία. Βιβλίον δίχαιον. 'Ο ἀδελφὸς μάταιος. 'Η ἀδελφὴ ματαία. Τὸ βιβλίον μάταιον. 'Ο πατής μου δίχαιος. 'Η μήτης μου διχαία. Τὸ βιβλίον μου δίχαιον. 'Ο ἀδελφός σου χρηστός ἐστι. 'Η ἀδελφή σου χρηστή ἐστι. Τὸ βιβλίον σου χρηστόν ἐστι. 'Η μήτης μου χρηστή ἐστι. 'Ο ἀδελφός μου δίχαιός ἐστι.

Rem.—When ¿στί and other enclitics of two syllables are preceded by a word accented on the antepenult, the accent of the enclitic is thrown back on the last syllable of that word. (See Rem. Ex. 9.)

Kai, and, but. Γάρ, for. Χαρίεις, χαρίεσσα, χαρίεν, graceful, elegant.

Just and good. Honest and wise. Handsome and kind. The father and mother. A sister and brother. Pretty but vain. Bad but clever. Amiable but frivolous. An elegant book. My graceful sister. Your silly brother. My book is good and useful.

Tίμιος, τιμία, τίμιον, precious, valuable. Γενναΐος, ία, ῖον, generous. 'Ωραΐος, ία, ἴον, ripe.

Πατής γενναίος. Μήτης σοφή. Βιβλίον τίμιον. 'Ωςαῖος καὶ ἀγαθός. Χαςίεις καὶ γενναῖος. 'Ο ἀδελφή σου ματαία. 'Η μήτης μου χεηστή. 'Ο πατής δίκαιος καὶ γενναῖος. 'Η μήτης καλή καὶ ἀγαθή. 'Ο ἀδελφός μου γενναῖος. 'Η ἀδελφή σου χαςίεσσα. Τὸ βιβλίον ἀγαθόν ἐστι, χρηστὸν γάς ἐστι. 'Ο ἀδελφός σου γενναῖος ἐστι.

REM.—Enclitics of two syllables likewise throw back their accent when preceded by a word circumflexed on the penult. (See Rem. Ex. 11.)

14.

'Αργός, ή, όν, uncultivated, indolent, idle, lazy. 'Εργαστϊκός, ή, όν, industrious, active, diligent. Μογερός, ά, όν, difficult, hard.

An industrious father. An active mother. A diligent sister. An idle brother. The generous father. The kind mother. The difficult book. My industrious brother. My frivolous sister. My bad book. My father is generous and just. Your book is good and useful. Your sister is lazy. Your mother is good, for she is diligent and kind.

Ei, if. El, thou art, you are. "Ω. O!

Δίχαιος εί. 'Αργός εί και μάταιος. Δίχαιος εί και γενναδος. Καλός εί και σορός. 'Αγαθή εί και χαρίεσσα. Εί μάταιος εί, κακός εί. Εί δίχαιος εί, σορός εί. Εί ἀργός εί, έργαστικός έστι. Εί καλή εί, χαρίεσσά έστι. Εί γενναδος; 'Ο ἀδελρός σου ἀγαθός έστιν, έργαστικός γάρ εστι. ''Ω βιβλίον! εί μογερόν. ''Ω ἀδελρή μου χαρίεσσα!

REM.—Words ending with a vowel sometimes take > when the next word begins with another vowel.

Μέτριος, ία, ον, moderate, cautious, mild. Πλούσιος, ία, ον, rich. Πτωχός, ή, όν, poor.

A moderate father. A mild mother. A valuable book. The rich brother. The rich sister. A difficult book. My poor father. Your poor mother. Thou art cautious. Are you rich? If you are rich, you are cautious. If he is poor, you are generous. If she is poor, you are rich. O my poor sister!

17.

Olκος (masc.), a house. Τράπεζα (fem.), a table. Φάσγἄνον (neut.), a knife.

'Ο οίπος μου. 'Η τεάπεζα μου. Το φάσγανον σου. 'Ο πατής μου πτωχός έστι. 'Η μήτης σου πλουσία έστί. Το βιβλίον μου τίμιον έστι. Οίπος άγαθος. Τεάπεζα άγαθή. Το φάσγανον παπόν έστι. 'Ο οίπος παλός έστι. 'Η τεάπεζα χαείεσσά έστι. Το φάσγανον μου χεηστόν έστιν, άγαθον γάς έστι.

REM.—Some inanimate objects are masculine, some feminine, and some neuter.

Υάκινθος (ὁ), a hyacinth. Μυρσίνη (ἡ), a myrtle, (μυρσϊνη). 'Ρόδον (τό), a rose.

REM.—The article indicates the genders of the nouns.

A graceful hyacinth. A handsome myrtle. A pretty rose. My bad knife. Your elegant house. A good and useful table. The house is handsome and useful. My graceful hyacinth. Your beautiful rose. O myrtle! thou art pretty.

19.

"Αρτος (ὁ), bread. Οἰνος (ὁ), wine. "Υδωρ (τό), water.

"Αρτος άγαθός. Οἶνος καλός. "Υδως χεηστόν. Εἶ πατής μου. "Εστι μήτης μου άγαθή. "Εστι άδελφή μου καλή. "Εστι πλούσιος. "Εστι πλουσία; Τὸ ὕδως κακόν ἐστι. 'Ωραίος οἶνος άγαθός ἐστι. "Ω ξόδον καλόν! $^{*}\Omega$ άδελφή! εἶ πλουσία καὶ γενναία.

REM.—'Εστί when it begins a sentence, or when used independently, takes the accent on the first syllable.

"Ιππος (ὁ), a horse. Εὐωχία (ἡ), a repast, a feast. Χωρίον (τό), a field, farm, land.

A sagacious horse. A generous repast. A useful farm. Ripe wine. Bread and water. My beautiful horse. Your horse is handsome. My rich and generous brother. My poor and industrious sister. Your land is good, but it is uncultivated. If you are poor, your father is rich. The bread is bad, but the wine is good.

Παῖς (ὁ or ἡ), a boy, a girl, a child, a son. Ανήρ, a man. Γυνή, a woman, a lady, a wife.

'Ο παῖς ἀγαθός. Παῖς ἀγαθή. 'Ανης ἐςγαστικός. Γυνη ματαία. 'Ο ἀνης δίκαιος και γενναϊός ἐστι. 'Η γυνη καλή ἐστι και χαρίεσσα. 'Ο παῖς κακός ἐστιν, ἀςγὸς γάς ἐστι. 'Η παῖς καλή ἐστιν, ἀγαθή γάς ἐστι. Τὸ χωρίον κακόν ἐστιν, ἀργὸν γάς ἐστι. 'Ο ἴππος σου καλός ἐστι και χρηστός. 'Ο γυνή! ἀργὴ εἶ και ματαία.

Σίδηρος (\dot{o}), a sword. Φων $\dot{\eta}$ ($\dot{\eta}$), a voice. *Εργον ($\tau \dot{o}$), an act, deed, work.

A handsome sword. A good voice. A generous deed. The sword and the knife. The man and the woman. The man is honest and diligent. The woman is vain and indolent. The boy is clever, but lazy. The girl is handsome, but frivolous. A vicious boy and a lazy girl. The man is good, for he is just. The woman is handsome, for she is good. O woman! thou art beautiful.

23.

Καινός, $\dot{\eta}$, $\dot{o}\nu$, new, fresh. Δείλος, $\dot{\eta}$, $o\nu$, timid. Nέος, νέα, νέον, young.

Φωνή δείλη. Νέα παίς. Καινός οίνος. 'Ο παίς νέος εστί. 'Ο σίδηςος μου άγαθός. 'Ο παίς νέος σοφός έστι. 'Η παίς νέα, δείλη έστί. 'Ο Ιππος μου νέος έστί. 'Η νέα γυνή χαρίεσσά έστι. 'Η φωνή σου κακή έστι. Πατής μου, εί δίκαιος καὶ γενναίος. Τὸ ὕδως άγαθόν έστι, καινόν γάς ἐστιν. ΄Ο ἀδελφὸς ἐςγαστικὸς καὶ ἡ ἀδελφὴ καλή. ΄Ω γυνή! εἶ δείλη. ΄ Ω ἀδελφή! νέα εἶ.

Rem.—The euphonic letter ν is sometimes added to a word at the end of a sentence. (See Rem. Ex. 15.)

24.

Δεινός, ή όν, terrible, ferocious. Αίσχρός, ά, όν, shameful, disgraceful, infamous, vile. Λόγιος, ίπ, ον, eloquent.

A terrible sword. A shameful deed. An eloquent man. The repast is disgraceful. The bread is shameful. The wine was infamous. A horse if sagacious is useful, but a horse if ferocious is bad. The book is bad, but it is eloquent. The girl is pretty, but she is timid. An upright, generous, and eloquent man. An elegant, handsome, and amiable woman. A young, beautiful, and clever girl. O voice! thou art terrible.

REM.—The doubtful vowel α , when final in the feminine of adjectives, is generally long; this causes the accent of the masculine to be thrown a syllable forward, thus $\lambda \delta \gamma \iota \delta \zeta$, fem. $\lambda \circ \gamma \iota \bar{\alpha}$, the changes of the accent being regulated by the quantity of the final syllable. Under such circumstances a circumflex becomes an acute, as $\omega \rho \alpha \bar{\iota} \circ \zeta$, fem. $\omega \rho a \iota \bar{\alpha}$. (See Appendix.)

THE ARTICLE.

Singular.

Fem. Neut. Masc. τό, the. Nominative Case: ò, ή, Genitive Case: τοũ, rou, of the. rης, $\tau \tilde{\varphi}$, to the. Dative Case: Accusative Case: τόν, τό, the.

Dual.

Nom. & Acc. Cases: rú, rá, rú, the two, both the. Gen. & Dat. Cases: roñ, rañ, roñ, of or to the two.

Plural.

Nominative Case: oi, ai, rá, the.
Genitive Case: rãr, rãr, rãr, of the.
Dative Case: roiç, raïç, roiç, to the.
Accusative Case: rouç, rác, rá, the.

REM.—(1) The article agrees with the noun in case as well as in number and gender, thus: δ οἶκος τοῦ ᾿Αλεξάνδρου, "the family of Alexander."

(2) The dual number is used in speaking of two persons or things, as roiv maidow, " to both the boys."

(3) The article is often used in Greek instead of a possessive pronoun, as η μήτηρ, "his" or "her mother."

(4) Besides "to," the propositions "at," "in," "on," "by," "with," and "for," are expressed in Greek by the dative case, as ref dyythe, "by," "with," or "for the messenger."

60.

'Απελλής (ό), Apelles: gen.
'Απελλοῦ, of Apelles.

Βἰκῶν (ἡ), (acc. εἰκόνα, dat.

γράμματος, of a painting.
Γραφείς, εῖσα, ἐν (acc. fem. γραφεῖσαν), painted.
'Βαυτοῦ, of himself, his own.
'Επύνεσε, he or she praised.
'Εν, in, at.
'Υπό, by.
Κατά, according to.

Ο Σύλλας δεινότατος. Ἡ Σεμίραμις ενδοζοτάτη. Τὸ ἔαρ ἢδιστον. Τίς ἦν ᾿Αλέξανδρος; Τί ἦν ᾿Απελλής; Ἦναξ μέτριος καὶ δίκαιος ἦν ὁ ᾿Αλέξανδρος. Σωγράφος τιμιώτατος ἦν ὁ ᾿Απελλής. Μήτης φρόνιμος εἶ καὶ εὐδαίμων. Ὁ παῖς οῦτος ἀδελφός μού ἐστι. Ἡ παῖς αϋτη ἀδελφή μού ἐστι. Καλὴ καὶ νέα. ᾿Αγαθός καὶ εὔτολμος. Βασίλισσα εἶ μετρία. Πτωχός εἰμι καὶ δυστυχής. Βὶ φρένιμός εἰμι, γενναίος εί. Ευρύ ήν το σπήλαιον. 'Αλέξανδρος θεασάμενος την εν Έφεσω είπονα εαυτού, την υπό Απελλού γραφείσαν ούχ επήνεσε κατά την άξίαν τοῦ γεάμματος.

Rem.—(1) The preposition έν takes a dative case after it, as έν Έφέσφ, "at Ephesus;" ὑπό takes a genitive, as ὑπὸ ᾿Απελλοῦ, "by Apelles," and κατά generally takes an accusative, as κατά την άξίαν, "according to the merits."

(2) Την εἰκόνα την ὑπὸ ᾿Απελλοῦ γραφεῖσαν, "the picture, the by Apelles painted," i.e. "the picture that was painted by Apelles." The article is often used in this way, instead of a relative with a form of the verb to be.

(3) Οὐκ ἐπήνεσε, "he did not praise it." The particle it, when put accusatively, is commonly understood in Greek.

(4) 'Αλέξανδρος θεασάμενος την εικόνα, "Alexander having inspected the portrait." Active verbs govern an accusative case.

61.

He is an Assyrian. She is an Egyptian. Thou art a prudent and pious father. Perdiccas, the Macedonian, was a brave man. A panther is more ferocious than a lion. The field is very broad. The act was most wicked. King Alexander was a very great general. Xeuxis was a very clever painter. The anemone is a very charming flower. The apple is a most delightful and very beautiful fruit. The merit of the painting. His own portrait. The picture at Ephesus. The portrait painted by Apelles. More pious than generous. More amiable than prudent. You are worse than your sister. Wiser than I am. Alexander praised the picture, but not according to the merits of the painting.

Είςαχθέντος δε τοῦ Ιππου καὶ χρεμιτίσαντος προς τον ίσπον τον έν τη είκονι, ως προς άληθινον και έκεῖνον, " ω βασιλεῦ, εἶπεν ὁ ᾿Απελλής, ἀλλ᾽ ὄγε ἵππος ἔοικε σοῦ γραφιπώτερος είναι πατά πολύ."

Rem.—(1) Είςαχθέντος τοῦ ἵππου καὶ χρεμιτίσαντος, literally, "of been led in, of the, of horse, and of neighed," "the horse having been led in, and having neighed." An English participle is sometimes rendered in Greek by putting the other words of the sentence in the genitive case. This construction is termed the Genitive absolute, and is equivalent to the adverbial ablative of the Latin language.

(2) Πρός τὸν Ἰππον ἐν τῷ εἰκόνι, "towards the horse that was in the picture." The preposition \(\phi \rightarrow \cong \) governs an accusative case.

(3) ¹Ως πρός άληθινόν και έκεινον, "as if that had been a real one."

(4) 'Ω βασιλεῦ, " O king !" The vocative case is used after the interjection &, and generally in all expressions implying an invocation.

(5) Σου γραφικώτερος, "more skilled in painting than you." The particle $\, "than," may be dropped, and the noun or pronoun put in the genitive case.

63.

The queen is a most amiable lady. The prince is a most prudent man. Socrates was a most estimable philosopher. Perdiccas was a brave general. The renowned poet Homer. The most glorious painter Apelles. Nile is a very deep river. New wine is not very pleasant. The leopard is not a very sagacious animal. I am a painter, but no poet. You are a generous man, but no philosopher. A real horse. The horse in the picture. The philosopher at Ephesus. The father of Apelles. His own mother. The horse having been led in, Semiramis praised it. Cleopatra did not praise her own portrait. Xeuxis was more skilled in painting than Apelles. Alexander was not more skilled in painting than a horse.

REM.—(1) To this declension belong feminine nouns in a, gen. a_{ς} ; η , gen. η_{ς} ; and masculine nouns in a_{ς} or η_{ς} , gen. ov.

(2) It will be observed that all the models have the terminations alike in the dual and plural, but that in the singular those in ac have the vocative in α and the dative in α . Some nouns in α have the genitive in η_S , the voc. in α , the dat. in η_S , and the acc. in $\alpha\nu$; this occurs when α is preceded by g or by a double consonant, as $\mu o \bar{\nu} \sigma a$, "a song," voc. $\mu o \bar{\nu} \sigma a$, g e n. $\mu o \bar{\nu} \sigma \eta$, g e n. $\mu o \bar{\nu} \sigma \eta$, g e n. $\mu o \bar{\nu} \sigma \eta$, g e n. $\mu o \bar{\nu} \sigma \eta$, g e n. $\mu o \bar{\nu} \sigma \eta$, g e n. $\mu o \bar{\nu} \sigma \eta$, g e n. The g e n is table." (See Appendix.)

(3) The gen. plu. of this declension is usually circumflexed on the last syllable, and an acute accent on the last syllable of the nom. is changed to a circumflex in the gen. and dat. of all the numbers.

(See Rem. Ex. 24.)

Rem.—(1) 'O δi $\dot{\nu} \dot{\alpha} \kappa \nu \theta \sigma_{\rm S}$, "but the hyacinth." The particle δi has always some other word of the sentence placed before it.

(2) 'O συστρατευσάμενος, "the having fought," i. e. "who had fought." The Greek idiom prefers using the article with a participle, rather than a relative with the verb.

(3) "Oς ποτε, "as one day." Unaccented words take an accent before an enclitic, but not of or εί before είμί, ἐστί. (See Rem.

Ex. 27, also Rem. Ex. 41.)

(4) Ένθα είχεν εύνην λέαινα, "where a lioness had its lair."

The possessives his, her, its, are frequently understood.

(5) Την μὲν λέαιναν οὐ κατέλαβε, τούς γε σκύμνους κομίζων προήλθεν, "though he did not capture the lioness, yet he came out carrying the cubs." The particles μέν, γέ, like δέ, have always some other word of the sentence placed before them.

REM.—(1) To this declension belong all masculine and feminine nouns in oc, and all neuters in ov, that have the genitive in ov.

(2) Masculines and feminines of this declension have the same terminations, but neuters have the voc. and acc. sing, like the nom., and the nom., voc., and acc. plu. end in a.

(3) When s or o precedes the termination, contraction takes place; νόος, "mind," gen. νό-ου, becomes νοῦς, gen. νοῦ; ὁστέον, "a bone," gen. ὀστέον, becomes ὀστοῦν, gen. ὀστοῦ; and these contracted forms run through all the cases.

(4) Some nouns of this declension have forms in ως, as λαγωός, or λαγώς, "a hare;" these forms in ως are declined thus:

Singular.	Dual.	Plural.
N. V. λαγ-ως. Gen. λαγ-ῶ. Dat. γαγ-ῷ. Acc. λαγ-ών.	N.V.A. λαγ-ώ. G. D. λαγῷν.	N.V. λαγ-ψ. Gen. λαγ-ὧν. Dat. λαγ-ψς. Δοο. λαγ-ψς.

The acc. sing. is written $\lambda \alpha \gamma - \omega \nu$, $\lambda \alpha \gamma - \omega \varsigma$, and $\lambda \alpha \gamma - \omega$ indifferently.

Rem.—(1) Οι τοῦ 'Αλκιβιάδου ἀγροί, "the lands of Alcibiades."
The noun is often placed, in this way, after the genitive it governs

(2) 'H εὐεργεσία ἡ τοῦ Πελοπίδου, "the clemency of Pelopidas." The article before the genitive implies that some particular act of clemency is referred to.

(3) Όρῶν ὁ Σωκράτης τὸν ᾿Αλκιβιάδην τετυφωμένον ἐπὶ τῷ πλούτῳ, "Socrates seeing that Aloibiades was conceited on account of his riches." A participle is often put adjectively in this way, instead of a relative with verb.

(4) Μέγα φρονοῦντα ἐπὶ τοῖς ἀγροῖς, "great thinking," i. e. that he thought himself great by reason of his estates. (See Rem.

2, Ex. 67.)
(6) Kal mooginate, "and he desired him." Pronouns are frequently understood. (See Rem. 3, Ex. 60.)

(6) Τοῦ δὲ εἰπόντος, "on his saying." Another example of the genitive absolute. (See Rem. 1, Ex. 62.)

(7) Ent rourous, "on account of those estates." The word $d\gamma \rho \sigma l c$, "estates," is understood. Observe that $l\pi l$, when used in the sense of "on account of," governs a dative case.

(8) Έπί τινα τόπου, "to a certain place." Here ἐπί is used in the sense of "to," and has an accusative after it.

(9) Μέγα φρονείς; "Do you think yourself great?" (See Rem.

4, above.)
(10) Eloiv for eloi, "are." Words having a short final vowel, sometimes take v at the end of a sentence. (See Rem. Ex. 23.)

REM.—(1) All nouns that have the genitive in oc belong to this declension.

(2) It will be observed that the masculines and feminines have the same terminations, but the neuters have the voc. and acc. sing. like the nom., and that the nom. voc. and acc. plu. end in a.

(3) The vocatives of all the genders are generally like the nominatives, but nouns ending in c drop the c, as nom. παίς, "a boy," νοο. παί; nom. βασίλευς, "a king," νοο. βασιλεϋ; ενεερτ ποϋς, "a foot," and ὁδούς, "a tooth," these preserve the c to distinguish them from ποϋ, "somewhere," and ὁδοῦ, gen. of ὁδός. Nouns in ας οτ εις, gen. ντος, make the νοc. in ν, as γίγας, "a giant," νοο. γίγαν.

(4) When a masculine or feminine noun increases in the gen, the increment is retained throughout the other cases, except the voc. sing. and dat. plu. The consonant of the genitive is dropped in the dative plural when ι of the dative singular is preceded by ν or by δ , τ , θ . If ν itself is accompanied by δ , τ , or θ , both consonants are dropped, as $\gamma i \gamma a c$, gen. $\gamma i \gamma a \nu \tau c$, dat. sing. $\gamma i \gamma a \nu \tau$, dat. plu. $\gamma i \gamma \bar{a} c$; and when the dative singular makes over, the o is changed into ov after the consonants are dropped, as $\lambda i o \nu \tau$, v a lion, v gen. $\lambda i o \nu \tau c$, dat. gen. $\lambda i o \nu \tau c$, dat. gen. $\lambda i o \nu \tau c$, dat. gen. dat. gen.

(5) In the models given above it will be seen that masc. and fem. nouns have the acc. sing. in a; nouns, however, in ις, υς, αυς, and ους generally take ν, as όφις, "a serpent," acc. όφιν; βότρυς, "a grape," acc. δότρυν; γραῦς, "an old woman," acc. γραῦν; βοῦς, "an ox," βοῦν; but Δίς, "Jupiter," makes Δία.

(6) When ω or η precedes the final consonant of the nom. these vowels are sometimes changed into ω , ε in the other cases, as $\kappa \dot{\nu} \omega \nu$, "a dog," voc. $\kappa \dot{\nu} o \nu$; $\sigma \dot{\omega} \tau \tau \rho$, "a preserver," voc. $\sigma \dot{\omega} \tau \epsilon \rho$, and ε is very generally dropped in the gen. and dat. sing., as $\mu \dot{\eta} \tau \eta \rho$, "a mother," voc. $\mu \ddot{\eta} \tau \epsilon \rho$, gen. $\mu \eta \tau \dot{\epsilon} \rho \sigma \rho$, or $\mu \eta \tau \dot{\rho} \sigma \rho$, dat. $\mu \eta \tau \dot{\epsilon} \rho \rho$, or $\mu \dot{\eta} \tau \dot{\tau} \rho \rho$.

(7) The doubles \(\xi$ and \(\psi$ are resolved into their simples in the oblique cases, as nom. \(\phi\)\(\phi\

(8) When the genitive ends in oc, pure, that is, when preceded by a vowel, some of the cases are contracted; thus:—

βασιλεύς, "a king;" gen. βασιλ-έως.

Singular.

dar. Pl

Nom. βασιλ-εύς. Voc. βασιλ-εῦ.

Gen. βασιλ-έος (έως).

Dat. βασιλ-έϊ (εῖ). Αω. βασιλ-έα (ῆ rarely). Plural.

Nom. $\beta \alpha \sigma i \lambda - \epsilon \epsilon \varsigma (\epsilon i \varsigma \text{ or } \tilde{\eta} \varsigma)$.

Voc. βασιλ-έες (εῖς). Gen. βασιλ-έων.

Dat. βασιλ-εῦσι.

Αος. βασιλ-έας (εῖς).

Dual.

N.V.A. βασιλ-έε. G. D. βασιλ-έοιν.

So in other nouns $\tilde{\epsilon i}$, $\epsilon \epsilon$, and $\epsilon \alpha$ are usually contracted into $\epsilon \tilde{\epsilon}$; but $\epsilon \alpha$, except in acc. plu., generally becomes η , and $\epsilon \epsilon$ of the dual is likewise sometimes contracted into η . Nouns in c_0 or η_C that have ϵc_0 in gen. contract ϵc_0 into c_0 , as $\mu \epsilon \rho c_0$, "a part," gen. $\mu \epsilon \rho c_0 c_0$, but contracted into $\mu \epsilon \rho c_0 c_0$; so $\sum \omega \kappa \rho \alpha \tau \eta_C$, "Socrates," gen. $\sum \omega \kappa \rho \alpha \tau r c_0$, $\sum \omega \kappa \rho \alpha \tau r c_0$. (See Appendix.)

(9) In the genitive λαμπάδος, the penult vowel is short, and the penult quantity of all the other augmented tenses (including the dative plural) is the same as that of the genitive.

73.

Κατάσκοπος, ου (ό), an explorer, a pioneer. 'Οδός, οῦ (ή), a way, an expedition. Υδάτιον, ου (τό), a drop or limited quantity of water. Κράνος, εος-ους (τό), a helmet. (2) Μικρον ὑδάτιον, "a little water."

(3) O δε τῷ στρατιᾶ δείξας, "but he having shewn to the army,"
 i. e. "but he, in order to shew to the army." The articles o, n, are sometimes used as pronouns equivalent to he, she, it.

(4) 'Ως εὐθυμεῖν χρή, "how to have courage it behoves," "the necessity of courage."

(5) Φανέντος δόατος, "the water being visible;" and πάντων δρώντων, "whilst all were looking on," are further examples of the genitive absolute. (See Rem. 6, Ex. 70.)

(6) A $\dot{\nu}\dot{r}\dot{o}_{c}$ $\mu\dot{\eta}$ $\pi \iota\dot{\omega}\nu$, "the same not drinking," i. e. "without drinking it." The particle $\mu\dot{\eta}$ is used instead of $o\dot{v}$ when the negation refers to an incidental clause, or to a single word, of a sentence.

REM .- (1) To this declension belong adjectives of three terminations: the masculine and neuter declined like nouns of the second declension, and the feminine like nouns of the first declension.

(2) Adjectives ending in poc or oc preceded by a vowel have a in the feminine singular, the others have n.

(3) As some nouns in og of the second declension are masculine and some feminine; so, in some adjectives of this declension the form in og serves for both masculine and feminine; as mas. and fem. άλκιμος, "powerful;" neut. άλκιμον; gen. for all genders άλκιμον.

(4) There are a few adjectives of this declension that have forms in $\omega_{\mathcal{G}}$, these are declined like nouns of the second declension, that have the same termination, as mase, and fem. $\ell_{\mu}\pi\lambda_{\epsilon}\omega_{\mathcal{G}}$, "full," neut. $\ell_{\mu}\pi\lambda_{\epsilon}\omega_{\nu}$; gen. sing. for all genders $\ell_{\mu}\pi\lambda_{\epsilon}\omega$. (See Rem. 4, Ex. 69.)

Τί ἰσχυρότατον; ἡ τύχη. Τί χρησιμώτατον; ὁ Θεός.

REM.—(1) Έν ταῖς μὲν βουλαῖς ἡ φρόνησις τῆς λογιότητὸς ἐστε κρείττων ἐν ταῖς δὲ.... The particles μὲν-δέ are used simply to shew the connexion between the two clauses of the sentence, and when employed in this way, have no equivalents in English. They may, however, in this instance, be rendered by "but," thus: "In council, prudence is more desirable than eloquence, but..."

(2) Ταῦτα γὰρ θνητά ἐστιν, "for these are perishable things." The word πράγματα, "things," is understood in this sentence, and consequently the verb ἐστί takes the place of siσί, "are," it being a rule in Greek that a noun in the neuter plural, when it refers to inanimate objects, has a verb in the singular.

(3) Τί μέγιστον; "what greatest?" i.e. "what thing is greatest?" In interrogations both the noun "things," and the verb "is," are usually understood.

(4) Τὸ ἡδύ, "the agreeable," i. c. "what is pleasant." The neuter forms of adjectives are used with the article as substantives.

(5) Σωκράτης καὶ Πλάτων, φιλόσοφοι, here the noun φιλόσοφος refers to two persons, and ought properly to be in the dual; the plural, however, is often used under such circumstances.

REM.—(1) Oi καοποί γλυκίους, "the sweeter fruits." Some adjectives have comparatives in two as well as in repor; thus "sweeter" may either be rendered by γλυκίων or γλυκύτερος.

(2) Er διδασκαλείου, "from school." The preposition er governs a genitive case.

- (3) Εἶτα προςιόντος Πεισιστράτου, "Pisistratus happening to pass at the time." Words used to extend the signification of other words (adverbs) are usually placed like elra at the head of the sentence.
- (4) 'Ο παιδαγωγός έφη τῷ Θεμιστοκλεῖ ἐκχωρῆσαι τῆς ὁδοῦ, "The pedagogue told Themistocles to have moved out of the way, i. e. "to move out of the way." A past form of the infinitive mood is used in Greek after another verb in a past tense.

(5) Ὁ δὲ πάνυ ἐλευθερίως ἀπεκρίνατο. "but he very boldly replied." The article used as a pronoun. (See Rem. 3, Ex. 73.)

(6) Αυτη γάρ αὐτῷ οὐχ ἰκανή ὁδός; "Why, is there not space enough for him already?'

(7) Εύγενές τι. "something noble." The particles τίς, τί in affirmative sentences are always placed after the word to which they refer. (See Rem. 5, Ex. 68.)

Rem.—(3) The following classes of adjectives have the same termination for all three genders.

The adjectives μάκαρ "blessed," μακρόχειρ "single-handed," and all others compounded with a substantive, except compounds of ποῦς and πόλις.

Those derived from πατήρ and μήτηρ that end in ωρ, as ἀπάτωρ "fatherless," ἀμήτωρ "motherless."

Those in ης-ητος and ως-ωτος, as άδμής "untamed," αγνώς "unknown," except πένης "poor," θής "servile," and Κρής "Crotan."

Those in ξ and ψ, as ἐριβώλαξ " very fertile," ἄοψ " blind."
Those in ας-αδος, ις-ιος, ις-ιδος, as φυγάς " fugitive," πολύμητίς " very sagacious," ἐλικώπις " sparkling-eyed."

The foregoing classes of adjectives are rarely used with neuter nouns, and are all declined like nouns of the third declension having similar terminations. (See Appendix.) $\Gamma \nu \omega \mu \eta$, ης (ή), a thought, a reflection. Σπαρτιάτης, ου (δ), a Spartan. Bοιωτός, οῦ (ὁ), à Bœotian. Λακεδαιμόνιος, ου (ο), α Lacedemonian. That land is moist. This region is dry. That wine is red. These things are luminous. Those apples are bitter. The cunning of that fox. The father of this boy is a general. The parents of these ragged children are poor. The same frog came out of the same pond. The same estates are represented in another map. The other portrait was painted by the same painter. Both the boys are the sons of the same father. Are these the same horses? Many broad and deep rivers. Much hard labour. eloquence of many orators is imprudent and dangerous. Many wars are shameful, but many are necessary and commendable. The statue of Alexander was the work of a great man. Semiramis the Assyrian was a brave and great queen. Prudence in a general is a great merit. India is the region of great rivers. The lioness is a large and ferocious brute. Elephants are large and powerful animals.

Τότε πορευθείς εξς των δώδεκα, ο λεγόμενος Ιούδας 'Ισκαριώτης, πρός τους άρχιερείς, και είπε τι θέλετέ μοι δούναι, κάγω ύμιν παραδώσω αυτόν; Ο δε εστησαν αυτω τειάχοντα ἀεγύεια.

Rem.—(1) Τὰ παλτὰ διατείνασθαι, "to extend their darte." The possessive pronouns my, thy, his, her, its, their, when no particular emphasis is implied, are rendered by the article.

(2) Kai rò abrou maidiov, "and his boy." The possessives my, thy, his, her, its, their, when emphatic, are often rendered by μου, σου, or the genitives of αυτός. (See Rem. 1, Ex. 90.)
(3) Φέρετε μοι, "bring me." Verbs signifying "to bring"

generally govern a dative of the person.
(4) Οὐδὲν εὐρίσκω αἴτιον ἐν τῷ ἀνθρώπῳ, " I see no fault in this man." The personal pronouns I, thou, he, she, it, we, you, and they, unless emphatic, are rarely expressed.

(5) Auroi sion, "they are." The personals he, she, it, they, and you, when expressed, are often rendered by the article, or by the nominative forms of αὐτός. (See Rem. 1, Ex. 90.)

(6) Έν μέσφ αὐτῶν, "in the midst of them." The objective personal pronouns him, her, it, them, are generally rendered by the corresponding forms of autoc. (See Rem. 1, Ex. 90.)

(7) 'Εκέλευσεν ημερώσαι, "he ordered them to plough it up." The objectives him, her, it, them, as also the dative pronouns, are often understood. (See Rem. 4, Ex. 96.)

(8) Δότε αὐτῷ, "give him." Verbs signifying "to give," generally take a dative case of the person.

(9) Πορευθέντες οι μαθηταί και παιήσαντες, "the disciples went and did." When two verbs in a past tense, coupled with "and," occur in English, they may be rendered, as in this sentence. by the corresponding Greek participles.

(10) Καθώς προς έταξεν αὐτοῖς, "as he desired them." Verbs signifying "to command," govern a dative of the person. (See Rem. 5, Ex. 70.)

(11) Tou ev obpavoic, "who is in heaven." Article equivalent to a relative with a form of the verb to be. (See Rem. 2, Ex. 60.) (12) Ele τῶν μικρῶν τούτων, "one of these tittle ones." An ad-

- jective used substantively. (See Rem. 8, Ex. 91.)
 (13) Έν τοῖς τοῦ πατρός μου, "about my father's affairs or business." The dative plural of πρᾶγμα understood. (See Rem. 7, Ex. 91.)
 - (14) Δεί είναι με, "it behoves me to be," i. e. "I must be."
- (15) Τους κακῶς ἔχοντας, "the ill-having," "the sick." (See Rem. 1, Ex. 80.)
- (16) Πορυθείς πρός τους άρχιερείς, "he went to the highpriests." The English particle to is sometimes rendered by a dative case, without a preposition (see Ex. 73); sometimes by $\pi \rho \delta c$; and when motion is implied, by eig. (See Rem. 2, Ex. 94.)

Rem.—(1) 'Εφ' δ καὶ ώρμήσατε, "upon what even you were bent," i. c. " what you intended." Here the neuter relative o is equivalent to what or that which, and as in this instance, may be placed after the next word of the sentence.

(2) 'Αφήσω αὐτῷ; "shall I forgive him?" Verbs signifying " to forgive," govern a dative of the person.

(3) 'Ανθρώπω βασιλεί, "to a certain king." (4) Έκελευσεν αύτον πραθηναι. "he ordered him to be sold."

Though the verb rede iw signifies "to command," it sometimes nevertheless takes an accusative of the person. (See Rem. 10, Ex. 99.)

(5) Πεσών ὁ δοῦλος προςεκύνει αὐτῷ, "the servant having allen down, he worshipped him," i. e. "the servant fell down and orshipped him." When two verbs in a past tense coupled with "and" occur in English, the first, or both, may be rendered by the Corresponding participle. The Greek idiom is very partial to this construction. (See Rem. 9, Ex. 99.)

(6) Πάντα σοι ἀποδώσω, "I will pay thee all." Verbs signifying "to pay" govern a dative of the person.

(7) "Ως ωφειλεν αὐτῷ, "who owed him."
"to owe" likewise take a dative of the person. Verbs signifying

(2) When two or more forms of a person are in use, the contracted, or shorter form, is most usually employed.

(3) $\mathbf{E} \ell \mu i$ takes some of its tenses from $\ell \omega$ "I place;" of these, however, the future is only given in the foregoing table, that tense alone being essential to the conjugation of the auxiliary.

(4) The present indicative forms of είμί are all enclitics, with the exception of the second person singular. (See Rem. 3, Ex. 65.)

(5) When a wish is expressed as in the phrase, "May you be successful;" and in such locutions as "Would that you were happy!" the forms "were" and "may be" of the auxiliary, are rendered by the optative, not by the subjunctive mood.

Rem.—(1) Τρίτον τοῦτο, "third this," i. e. "this is the third time." The forms of the verb to be are generally dropped in Greek, when they can be omitted without obscuring the sense of the con-(See Rem. 3, Ex. 94.)

 (2) Δύο μαρτύρων και τριών, "of two or three witnesses."
 (3) Τὸ δεύτερον, "the second time." The neuter form of the adjective δεύτερος, "second," has here a substantive value. The neuters of most other adjectives likewise admit of a similar extension of their signification, as αγαθόν, "a good thing," τὸ άγαθόν, "good," in a general sense. (See Rem. 4, Ex. 78.)

(4) Έν τῷ εἶναι αὐτὸν προςευχόμενον, "in the to be himself praying," i. e. "whilst he was praying." The preposition εν often occurs at the head of a dependant sentence, in which case it is equivalent to whilst, when, or as. Used in this way &v requires the verb to be in the infinitive mood, and the accessory words in the accusative case. In such constructions the infinitive becomes a noun and always takes the article.

(5) Πάντες οι συμπάροντες ημίν ανδρες, " all the being present with us men," i. e. "all the men who are here present." (See Rem.

2, Ex. 104.)

(6) Θεωρείτε τοῦτον, "you see this man." The word ανδρα understood. Nouns of frequent occurrence are sometimes dropped in this way, when the sense of the context is not obscured by their omission. (See Rem. 8, Ex. 83; Rem. 1, Ex. 86, and Rem. 13, Ex. 99.)

(7) Μή δεῖν ζῷν αὐτὸν μηκέτι, "not it behoves him to live any longer;" i. e. "he ought not (to be allowed) to live any longer." Impersonal verbs generally govern an accusative case. (See Rem. 14, Ex. 99.)

(8) Έν $\tau\tilde{\varphi}$ λαλησαι, "in the to have spoken," i. e. "when he had spoken." (See Rem. 4, above.)

(9) Πλήν τὰ ἐνόντα δότε ἐλεημοσύνην, "it would be better if yoù gave alms of what you possess. (See Rem. 5 above.)

(10) Πάντα καθαρὰ ὑμῖν ἐστιν, "all thing are clean unto you." Πράγματα understood and verb consequently in singular. Rem. 7, Ex. 91.)

107.

What animal is fiercer than the lioness? Which is the broadest and deepest river of Asia? The Ganges and Hydaspes are the two great rivers of India. Every man desires to live, even though he is poor and wretched. Hope of honour and dread of punishment are as sources of virtue. Apelles was the most illustrious of the painters of Attica. They say that Agathocles king of Sicily was the son of a potter. Aristides the Just was a praiseworthy man, but he was unfriendly to Themistocles. Alcibiades besought Socrates to be his friend. The horse in the picture has appeared to be real. Cleopatra the Egyptian has not been considered to be the best of queens. What do the people say that the painting at Memphis is? O king, be just and merciful. Friend, be vigilant. Sons, be prudent, that you may be respected. Fathers, be upright, that you may be worthy of honour. We may be happy even though we are poor. All men may be happy, for true happiness is the fruit of virtue. Repose is the seasoning of labour, and labour, according to Æsop, is a treasure to all men. Youths, if you are desirous of learning, you will be learned, for knowledge is the fruit of industry. O brother, would that you were wise and good!

APPENDIX.

IRREGULAR NOUNS OF THE FIRST DECLENSION.— (See Ex. 64.)

Nouns in α, gen. ης (See Rem. 2, Ex. 64) are declined thus:—

ή τράπεζα, a table.

•	Singular.	Dual.	Plural.
N. & V.	τράπεζα		τράπεζαι.
Gen.	τραπέζης.	τραπέζα.	τραπεζῶν.
	τραπέζη.	τραπέζαιν.	τραπέζαις.
Ace.	τράπεζαν.		τραπέζας.

2. Nouns of this declension in α_{ℓ} and η_{ℓ} form the vocative by dropping the $_{\ell}$, but the following in η_{ℓ} make the vocative in α :—

Περφήτης, "a prophet," voc. περφήτα, and other nouns in της.

Κυνώπης, "dog-faced," voc. πυνῶπα, and other nouns in πης.

Πέρσης, "a Persian," voc. Πέρσα, and other names of nations.

- Γεωμέτρης, "a geometrician," νος. γεωμέτρα, and other nouns derived from μετρέω, "I measure," as also those derived from πωλέω, "I sell," and τρίβω, "I rub."
- Some nouns of this declension have an irregular genitive in α, as δρυθοθήρας, δρυθοθήρα, "a bird-catcher." (See Rem. 1, Ex. 68.)

IRREGULAR NOUNS OF THE SECOND DECLENSION.— (See Ex. 69.)

1. Contracted nouns (see Rem. 3, Ex. 69,) of this declension are declined thus :—

Voc.	ήχοῖ.	αίδοῖ.
Gen.	ήχόος, οῦς.	αίδόος, οῦς.
	ήχόϊ, ολ.	αἰδόϊ, οĩ.
Acc.	ήχόα, ώ.	αἰδόα, ώ.

The dual and plural of words of this form, when the signification admits of any, are taken from nouns in og of the second declension.

9. Many nouns of this declension form their oblique cases from some other nominative than that in use; thus, γυνή, a woman, makes gen. γυναικός, dat. plu. γυναιξί, as if from a nominative γύναιξ.

IRREGULAR ADJECTIVES.—FIRST DECLENSION.— (See Ex. 77.)

Adjectives of this declension that have two terminations only (see Rem. 3, Ex. 77), are declined thus:—

ό, ή ἀθάνἄτος, τὸ ἀθάνᾶτον, immortal.

Plural	•
N.V. tivés.	τινά.
Gen. TIVÕV.	rıvõv.
Dat. vidí.	TIGÍ.
Acc. TIVÁG.	τινά.

Besides the signification "a certain," $ri_{\mathcal{L}}$ is equivalent to some, any (see Rem. 1, Ex. 67). It is also an interrogative pronoun (see Rem. 3, Ex. 78). When used as an adjective $ri_{\mathcal{L}}$ is an enclitic, but when used as a pronoun, it retains the accent, and the oblique cases take the acute on the first syllable.

3. To this declension also belong compounds of \(\pi\cdot\varphi_\varphi\), ποδός, "a foot," as ό, η δίπους, το δίπουν, gen. δίποδος acc. δίπουν, "biped;" ό, ή, πολύπους, τὸ πολύπουν, gen. πολύποδος, "many-footed."

IRREGULAR ADJECTIVES.—THIRD DECLENSION.— (See Ex. 85.)

Acc. oixíovras (ouvras),	-souras (ouras),	-ÉOVTA (OŨVTA).

5. Participles in v_{ξ} , $v_{i\alpha}$, o_{ξ} , likewise belong to this declension, and are declined thus:—

τετύφώς, υΐα, ός, having struck.

	Singular.
N.V. τετὔφώς,	τετυφυΐα,	τετύφός.
Gen. τετυφότος,	τετυφυίας,	τετυφότος.

Dat. τετωφόσι,	τετυφυίαις,	τετυφόσι.
Αcc. τετυφότας,	τετυφυίας,	τετυφότα

6. Adjectives of one termination for all three genders (see Rem. 3, Ex. 85) are declined like nouns of the third declension. Ex.—

ό, ή, τὸ μάχας, blessed.

Singular.	Dual.	Plural.
	Masc., Fem., and Neut.
Ν.Γ. μάχας.		Ν.Υ. μάπαζες.
Gen. µáxãços,	Ν.Υ.Α. μάχἄςε.	Gen. μακάζων.
Dat. µáxăgı,	G.D. μαχάροιν.	Dat. μάπαζοι.
Acc. µáxaga,	•	Acc. µaxaeus.

Though $\mu \acute{a} \epsilon a \rho$ may be used with nouns of all genders, it is better to use with feminine and neuter nouns some other adjective of the same signification that has forms for these genders.

ADJECTIVES.—COMPARISON.—(See Ex. 52 and 54.)

The comparative is formed by adding τερος to the positive; the superlative, by adding τατος, as μάχαρ, "blessed," μακάρτερος, μακάρτατος.

Those in oç and υς drop the ς before these terminations, as ενδοξος, "glorious," ἐνδοξότερος, ἐνδοξότατος.

When the penult vowel is short, o is changed into ω, as φρόνιμος,

"prudent," φρονιμώτερος, φρονιμώτατος.
Adjectives in ας, and ης, annex the terminations to the neuter, as μέλας, μέλαινα, μέλαν, "black," μελάντερος, μελάντατος; σαφής, ες, "clear," σαφέστερος, σαφόστατος.

Those in eig take εστερος, εστατος, as χαρίεις, "graceful," χαριέστερος, χαριέστατος.

Those in ην and ων annex εστερος, εστατος to the neuter, as σώφρων, ον, "temperate," σωφρονέστερος, σωφρονέστατος; τέρην, εν, "tender." τερεγέστερος, τερεγέστατος.

εν, "tender," τερενέστερος, τερενέστατος.
Μοστ nonns in ξ take ίστερος, ίστατος, as βλάξ (βλακς),
"foolish," βλακίστερος, βλακίστατος; ἄρπαξ-(ἄρπαγς), "rapacious," ἀρπαγίστερος, ἀρπαγίστατος:

2. Some form the comparative by adding ιων, and the superlative by adding ιστος, as γλυκύς, "sweet," γλυκίων, γλυκίστος. Many of these, however, are likewise compared regularly, as γλυκύτεςος, γλυκύτατος.

3. The following are irregular in one or both the degrees:--

NOUNS.—ACCENTS.—(See Ex. 24.)

1. The acute accent may stand on the last syllable (the ultima), on the last but one (the penultima), or on the last but two (the antepenultima). It cannot, however, stand on the antepenultima if the last syllable is long, hence arise the following general laws:—

1. When the acute stands on the autepenult, and the last syllable of the word is lengthened, the accent must be carried a syllable forward, Ex.:—

Nom. ἄνθρωπος, a man. Gen. ἀνθριόπου. (2) Diphthongs are long, but ai and oi, when final in nouns, are reckoned short unless followed by a consonant, Ex.:—

Nom. Sing. ἄνθρωπος. Nom. Plu. ἄνθρωποι. Dat. Plu. ἀνθρώποις.

(3) So when the last syllable of a word, having an acute on the penult, is shortened, the accent falls back, Ex. :—

Nom. Masc. εὐδαίμων, happy. Nom. Neut. εὕδαιμον.

- 2. The circumflex can only stand over the ultima or penultima, and as this accent is supposed to indicate some contraction it can only be placed upon a long vowel, hence the following general principles.
 - If the last syllable of a word is long, and the accent falls upon the penult, it will be acuted, as Aσία. But if the last syllable be short and the penult long, the word will be circumflexed, as σῶμᾶ.
 - (2) So when a long penult is acuted, and the final syllable shortened, the acute is changed into a circumflex, Ex.:—

Nom. Sing. στρατιώτης, a soldier. Voc. Sing. στρατιῶτὰ. Nom. Plu. στρατιῶται.

(3) And vice versa, Ex.-

Nom. Sing. ταῦρος, a bull. Gen. Sing. ταύρου. Gen. Plu. ταύρων.

(4) Since a circumflex cannot stand over the antepenultima, the circumflex becomes an acute, when a word circumflexed on the penult takes an additional syllable, Ex.:—

> Nom, σῶμα. Gen. σώματος.

- 3. In declining the nouns the following special rules will have to be observed.
 - The genitive plural of the first declension has always a circumflex on the final syllable, as oi ἡμέραι, τῶν ἡμερῶν. Except the feminine of adjectives in oc accented on the antepenult, as ἄγιος, "holy," fom. ἀγία, ἀγίων.
 In words of the second declension, when an acute falls on the

(2) In words of the second declension, when an acute falls on the penult and the ultima is short, the accent remains unchanged through all the cases: Εχ. τὸ ξύλον, "a wood," τὰ ξύλα.

τῶν ξύλων.

(3) In words of the first and second declensions, acuted on the last syllable, the circumflex takes the place of the acute in the genitive and dative singular, dual, and plural, as τιμή, τιμής, τιμή, τιμών, τιμαίς. With the exception of the forms in ως.

(4) Monosyllabic nouns of the third declension take the accent on the final syllable of the genitive and dative of all the numbers, as κύων, κυνός. The same transposition occurs in words syncopated, as άνήρ, άνδρός, and in γυνή, γυναικός, γυναικί, YUVAIKEC.

NOUNS-QUANTITY.-(See Ex. 24.)

1. As regards the quantity of the doubtful vowels α , i, v, in nouns, the following general rules may be stated.

One vowel before another is short, as in approc, "a field." There are, however, some exceptions to this rule, as for example in 'Αγησίλαος.

A vowel before two consonants, or one of the doubles, is long, as in ayahua, "an ornament." Under such circumstances the vowel is said to be long by position.

Before some combinations of consonants, however, as κλ, the vowel may continue short, e. g. Θεμιστοκλῆς. A contracted vowel, or a vowel under the circumflex accent, is long, as in $\Theta \rho \bar{\alpha} \pi \eta c$, $T \iota \tau \bar{\alpha} \nu o c$, gen. of $T \iota \tau \dot{\alpha} \nu$. In derivatives the vowels generally have the same quantity as in the primitives, e. g. τιμή, "honour," ἀτίμος, "dishonoured."

In some words the vowels are sometimes short and sometimes long, as in the verse τὰ μή κἄλὰ κᾶλὰ πέφανται, "the brilliant deeds have not appeared brilliant."

Comparatives in www, as rariwr, "worse," have the clong in the Attic dialect and short in all the others.

When the penult syllable of a word is circumflexed the last syllable is short, as in μοῦσᾶ, "a song;" when the penult is acuted the final syllable is long, as in ωρā, "an hour."

2. First Declension.

The termination α, gen. ης, is always short, as in τράπεζα, "a table."

The termination a, gen. ac, is mostly long, as in $\chi a \rho \bar{a}$, "joy." The termination a of dissyllables in sia is long, as in xosia, " want," but short in dissyllables as ἀλήθεια, " truth;" except derivatives from verbs as πορεία, "a journey," from πείρω, " I pierce." So βασίλεια, "a queen," from βασίλεις, "a king," but βασίλεία, "a kingdom," from βασίλείω, "I rule."

Polysyllables in our have likewise the a commonly short, e. g. ανοιά, "madness."

So feminine appellatives of more than two syllables, as in ποιήτρια, "poetry;" and the feminine adjective πότνια, "revered."

In the termination ας of the gen. sing. and acc. plu. the α is always long, ε. g. ἡμέρα, "a day," ἡμερᾶς.

The acc. sing. in av follows the nominative, as in rapiāc, "a steward," αςς. ταμίαν; μοῦσα, αςς. μοῦσαν.

In the dative, singular, and dual, α final is always long: Ex. $r\tilde{\eta}$ $\eta\mu s\rho \tilde{q}$, $\tau \tilde{\omega}$ $\nu \epsilon \alpha \nu i \tilde{q}$. The dual of the feminine article has likewise the α long.

In the vocative, nouns in ας have the α long, but nouns in ης have the α short, ε. g. νεανίας, "a youth," νου νεανία; κριτής, "a judge," κριτά.

3. Second Declension.

Adjectives in of pure or $\rho o_{\mathcal{L}}$ accented on the antepenult, have the termination α of the feminine long, as in $\ddot{a}\gamma io_{\mathcal{L}}$, "holy," fom. $\dot{a}\gamma i\ddot{a}$.

4. Third Declension.

The last syllable of nominative has generally the same quantity as the penult of genitive, Εκ.—τραϋμά, τραύμάτος, "a wound," κηλῖς, κηλῖδος, "a freckle," κόρὕς, κάρῦθος, "a helmet."

The terminations of the cases in α , αc , and ι , are always short, e. g. $\lambda i \omega \nu$, "a lion," $\lambda i \omega \nu \tau i$, $\lambda i \omega \nu \tau \alpha i$, $\lambda i \omega \tau \alpha i$. But in nouns in $\epsilon \nu c$ and mostly in those in $\epsilon \lambda \eta c$, the $a \omega$. $\epsilon \alpha$, with a few exceptions, has the a long, Ex. $\beta a \omega \iota \lambda \epsilon \dot{\nu} c$, $a \omega$. $\beta a \omega \iota \lambda i \ddot{a}$, 'Hoakh $\ddot{\eta} c$," "Hercules," $a \omega$. 'Hoakh $\ddot{a} c$.

The dative plurals of syncopated nouns have the α long, as in πατράσι, άνδράσι, μητράσι.

Genitives in ανος, ινος, υνος (except μέλανος, τάλανος,) have always the penult long, s. g. παιάν, παιᾶνος, "a hymn in praise of Apollo," δελφίν, δελφίνος, "a dolphin."

Nouns that have og pure in the genitive (except γρᾶος, from γραῦς) have the penult short, as in ὄφις, ὄφῖος, "a serpent."

Neuter nouns in a, ac, aρ have a in the penult of genitive short, as σωμα, σωμάτος, "the body," κρέας, κρέάτος, "flesh," νέκταρ, νέκταρος, "nectar,"

So have masculine and feminine nouns in ας, as in Παλλάς, Παλάδος, "Minerva."

Likewise nouns in ψ , and generally those in ξ , as $\tilde{a}\rho a\psi$, $\tilde{a}\rho \tilde{a}\beta o \varsigma$, "an Arab," $\kappa \delta \lambda a \xi$, $\kappa \delta \lambda \tilde{a} \kappa o \varsigma$, "a flatterer."

Also masculines and feminines in αρ (except ψάρ), as μάκαρ, μάκαος, "blessed."

Neuter nouns have a in the increment of the genitive short, Ex.

 $\mu \lambda \lambda$, $\mu i \lambda i roc$, "honey."

Also feminines and masculines, that are not accented on the last syllable, in the and troe, as "Epic," "Epidoc, "the Goddess of Discord."

So feminines in adog accented on final syllable, as warpic, wa-τρίδος, "one's country." Most nouns in υρ have υ short in the penult of genitive, as μάρτυρ, μάρτυρος, "a witness."

acrist; if in τ , δ or θ , these letters are thrown out, as in $\tau i\rho \pi \omega$, I delight, fut. $\tau i\rho \psi \omega$; $\pi \lambda i \pi \omega$, I fold, fut. $\pi \lambda i \xi \omega$; $\delta \delta \omega$, I sing, fut. $\delta \sigma \omega$.

So when v follows w in the root of the present, valone appears in the root of the future and acrist, as rivers, I strike, fut. ru \ w (run-ow).

(b) If the suffix begins with an aspirate* and the root ends with a labial or guttural, the latter is changed into the corresponding aspirate; but, if the final root consonant is a dental, it becomes σ ; hence, a root ending in the future or a orist active with β or π will have $\varphi\theta$, in the future and a orist passive, if ending with γ or π , will have $\chi\theta$, and if with a dental, will have π , ex. runnum, aor. pass. irunum, irunum, I say, aor. pass, $i\lambda i \chi \theta \eta v$; $\pi s i \theta \omega$, I persuade $i\pi s i \sigma \theta \eta v$.

(o) If the suffix begins with x and the root ends with a lahial or guttural, x is replaced by changing the final consonant into a letter of corresponding power: thus, λύω has λύσω in the future and λέλυκα in the perfect; but a verb having ψ in the future has φ in the perfect, ξ produces λ, and σ makes x, as τύστω, fut. τύψω, perf. τέτυφα; λεγω, fut. λέξω, perf. λέλιχα; ἄδω, ἄσω, ἦχα.

- (d) When the suffix begins with μ , the final consonant of the root, if a labial, is changed into μ , if a guttural, into γ , and if a dental it makes σ ; so that a perfect active in $\varphi \alpha$ produces a perfect passive in $\mu \mu \alpha \alpha$; $\chi \alpha$ becomes $\gamma \mu \alpha \alpha$, and $\kappa \alpha$ (if of a verb in $\delta \omega$, $\tau \omega$ or $\delta \omega$) becomes $\delta \mu \alpha \alpha$, ex. $\tau \nu \pi \tau \omega$, perf. act. $\tau \nu \tau \nu \tau \omega$, perf. pass. $\tau \nu \tau \nu \tau \omega$, $\tau \nu \omega$, τ
- (e) Verbs in $-\lambda \omega$, $-\mu \omega$, $-\nu \omega$, $-\rho \omega$ make the future by simply changing ω of the present into $\widetilde{\omega}$, as $\sigma r \in \lambda \lambda \omega$, I send, fut. $\sigma r \in \lambda \widetilde{\omega}$, and generally the four liquids unite readily with the other consonants.†
 - The mutes are likewise distinguished by degree, thus:—Softs, β , γ , δ .

Hards, π , κ , τ . Aspirates, ϕ , χ , θ .

4. In combining the root with the tense terminations, verbs in aw, sw and ow generally change the short vowel into the corresponding long. In the present and imperfect tenses the following modifications likewise occur :-- verbs, the case terminations or other inflexions of the language, is governed by the following general principles:—

(1.) When one mute follows another, both must be of the same degree.

(2.) Two successive syllables rarely begin with an aspirate. (3.) The liquid μ almost always precedes a labial, but a labial never precedes u.

(4.) The liquid ν has an affinity for dentals.
(5.) When a mute, and σ occur together, both letters are resolved into one or other of the doubles, ψ , ξ or ζ .

* A vowel is said to be pure when it is preceded by another vowel or by the consonant ρ .

- (a) When the termination begins with a vowel or diphthong, verbs in s generally drop the s, but ss becomes ss and so makes ov.
- (b) Verbs in $\alpha\omega$ change α_0 , $\alpha\omega$, $\alpha \omega_0$, into $\tilde{\omega}$; $\alpha\omega$ into $\tilde{\omega}$; α_i , α_i into α ; α_i , α_i into α .

(o) Verbs in ow change os, oo, oou into ou; όη όω into $\tilde{\omega}$;— $\delta\eta$, $\delta\varepsilon$, $\delta\varepsilon$, oos into os; and in the infinitive ossy into ov.

- 5. There are a class of verbs that have the first person present indicative in μ_i , these are formed from primitives in $\epsilon\omega$, $\alpha\omega$, $\omega\omega$, ω ; first, by changing ω into μ_i and lengthening the preceding vowel, and then by prefixing the first consonant (or if an aspirate its simple) with ι , as $\delta \delta \omega$, $\delta i \delta \omega \mu_i$, I give, $\theta \epsilon \omega$, $\tau i \theta \eta \mu_i$, I place. The forms of the verbs in μ_i only differ from those in ω in the construction of the aorist and perfect tenses.
- 6. Some compound verbs have a second agrist tense, which is usually derived from the primitive: thus, $\lambda \alpha \mu \beta \dot{\alpha} \nu \omega$, I take, has a second agrist $\tilde{\epsilon} \lambda \dot{\alpha} \beta o \nu$ from the primitive $\lambda \dot{\gamma} \beta \omega$ obsolete. The second agrist indicative is conjugated like the imperfect, as $\tilde{\epsilon} \lambda \alpha \beta o \nu$, -\$\varepsilon\$, -\$\varepsilon\$, the second agrist of the other moods have the terminations of the present. Verbs that have a second commonly want the first agrist.
- 7. The third person plu. perf. act. and the participle in ασα have the penult long, as λελύπασι, λύσασα, in other terminations the doubtful penult vowels are generally short.

The foregoing remarks are designed merely to give the learner a general view of the inflexions of the Greek verb. In the second course the matters here referred to will be treated more in detail.

PREPOSITIONS.

There are eighteen prepositions which govern certain cases of the nouns, thus:—

```
(1) Governing Genitive. Dative, or Accusative.
   \begin{cases} \text{(with a gen.), of, about, relative to.} \\ \text{(with a dat.), to (without motion).} \\ \text{(with an acc.), around, towards.} \end{cases}
 \dot{a}\mu\phi i \begin{cases} \text{(with a gen.), upon, on account of.} \\ \text{(with a dat.), on, about.} \\ \text{(with an acc.), around.} \end{cases}
     (with a gen.), by, with, into (without motion). (with a dat.), on, at, on account of. (with an acc.), to, into (with motion).

    παξά { (with a gen.), from, by, with.
    (with a dat.), at, beside, near.
    (with an acc.), towards, to (with motion).

   \pi_{\ell} \delta_{\ell} \begin{cases} \text{ (with a gen.), } from, \ by, \ near. \\ \text{ (with a dat.), } near, \ at, \ in. \\ \text{ (with an acc.), } to, \ towards, \ for. \end{cases}
     (2) Governing the Genitive or Accusative.
διά { (with a gen.), by, between, through. (with an acc.), through, on account of. xατά { (with a gen.), down, on, in, under. (with an acc.), by, as to, according to. \dot{v}\pi\dot{e}p { (with a gen.), above, for the sake of. (with an acc.), beyond, over. (with a gen.), with, towards. (with an acc.), after, into, against.
```

(3) Governing the Genitive.

ix (before a consonant), } iž (before a vowel), dire, by, through, on, from. πρό, before, for. arti, against, instead of, opposite.

(4) Governing the Dative.

èr. in, into, at. our, with, agreeably to.

(5) Governing the Accusative.

ti;, within, to, into, amongst. ava, upon, by, according to.

Rms. 1.—The prepositions are much used in the formation of compound words, as προβάλλω, I put before, or I prefer; from compound words, as προβαλλω, 1 put before, or 1 preser; norm salk λω, I throw, or I put. Two, or even three prepositions may be prefixed in this way to a simple verb.

When a preposition enters into the composition of a word, its final consonant is generally dropped. Verbs beginning with ρ take a second between the preposition and the root. The ν of έν is changed into μ before labial consonants, into γ before gutturals, and into λ before a word beginning with that latter. Rates a the sale of and into A before a word beginning with that letter. Before of the and into λ describe a representation of changed into σ , and becomes ρ beconsonant ζ is extend to γ is subject to the same changes as the ν of $i\nu$. The vowels of $\pi\epsilon\rho i$ and $\pi\rho\delta$ are generally preserved,

2. Besides the prepositions, the following particles are used in modifying the meaning of verbs :-

a privative, gives an opposite meaning to the primitive signification of a word, τιμή, honour, ατιμία, dishonour. δύς, expresses an attribute of evil. ev, denotes a good attribute. άρι, έρι, βου, βρι, δα, ζα, strengthen the force of the root.

Dr. Ahn's popularity in Germany as a writer and compiler of Elementary Educational Works, outrivals even that of Ollendorff. The fact that some of the above volumes have passed through more than fifty editions in a few years, is a sufficient guarantee for their excellence and wide-spread reputation, whilst the low price at which they are now issued place them within reach of every one.
